MARKET PREVIEW
Equities:

US:- US stocks extended losses today as data showing an unexpected rise in weekly jobless claims refuelled recovery fears in the world's biggest economy. Initial claims climbed by 2000 to 484,000 in the week to Aug 7 from the previous week's upwardly revised figure of 482,000.

Asia:- Asian stocks fluctuated as earnings reports and broker upgrades overshadowed an unexpected rise in U.S. unemployment claims. Genting Singapore Plc, a unit of Asia's second-biggest listed casino operator, rallied 12 percent to an all-time high after swinging to a profit in the second quarter. The MSCI Asia Pacific Index was little changed at 117.22 as with about the same number of stocks rising as falling

Indian:- Robust June quarter earnings by banking major SBI helped the BSE benchmark Sensex to end marginally higher by four points today, reversing early losses suffered due to rising food prices and falling factory output. Market men said the investor sentiment took a beating with food inflation rising to double digits again at 11.4% for week ended July 31 and industrial production falling to 7.1% in June, the lowest in 13 months. State Bank of India's 25% jump in April-June quarter profit trickled in like a god-send, lifting the plunging market sentiment. Today markets are likely to open on flattish note on back of mixed global cues.

Economy More Americans than forecast filed applications for unemployment benefits last week, signaling firings stepped up as the economy slowed. Initial jobless claims rose by 2,000 to 484,000 in the week ended Aug. 7. In a double whammy of sorts, growth in India's industrial production slipped to its slowest pace in 13 months, whereas food price inflation shot through the double digit mark yet again. Data released showed index of industrial production (IIP) for the month of June to be only 7.1% higher than its level a year ago, way below the May growth rate of 11.3% and lower than the Reuters poll forecast of 8.4% for the month of June.

Currency: - The U.S. dollar rose against major currencies on Thursday, extending the previous day's gains, as an unexpected rise in U.S. weekly jobless claims and weaker-than-expected euro zone data spurred safe-haven demand.

Commodity :- U.S. crude oil futures prices fell a third straight day on Thursday, sliding nearly 3 percent as an unexpected rise in U.S. jobless claims fueled concerns about faltering economic growth and tepid oil demand

ECONOMY
Economy to grow by 8.5% despite slowdown in IIP: Plan panel

Planning Commission expressed confidence that the economy would grow by 8.5 per cent despite the industrial growth rate slipping to a 13-month low of 7.1 per cent in June. (ET)

INTERNATIONAL
More Americans Than Forecast File Claims for Jobless Benefits

More Americans than forecast filed applications for unemployment benefits last week, signaling firings stepped up as the economy slowed. Initial jobless claims rose by 2,000 to 484,000 in the week ended Aug. 7, the highest level since mid February, Labor Department figures showed. The number of people receiving unemployment benefits dropped, while those getting supplemental benefits surged by 1.34 million reflecting the government's extension of eligibility. Companies may be losing confidence in the recovery and are hesitant to hire, raising the risk of further erosion in consumer spending, the biggest part of the economy. (Bloomberg)

Hong Kong's Growth May Slow to 6.3% as Chinese Economy Cools

Hong Kong's economy probably expanded for a third straight quarter from a year earlier as the city sustained its recovery from the global financial crisis. Gross domestic product rose 6.3 percent in the three months ended June . In the first quarter, the expansion was 8.2 percent. The figure is due at 4:30 p.m. today. Growth may keep cooling through the rest of this year as a slowdown in China flows through to the city that serves as trading and financial hub for the world's fastest-growing major economy. (Bloomberg)

New Zealand Retail Sales Rise Four Times Estimates, Stoking Currency Gain

New Zealand retail sales rose four times economists' estimates in the second quarter, stoking the nation's currency and providing scope for central bank Governor Alan Bollard to keep raising interest rates. Sales, adjusted for inflation, jumped 1.3 percent from the first quarter, when they advanced 0.2 percent, Statistics New Zealand said in Wellington. New Zealand's dollar rose for the first time in five days as increased spending contrasted with falling house sales and rising unemployment that suggested the nation's expansion would be weak this year. (Bloomberg)

Yen Weakens on Speculation Japan Will Curb Gains

The yen weakened from a 15-year high against the dollar and fell versus the euro after Japanese officials said they're closely watching the rise of the currency, fueling concern its surge in strength may be capped. Japan's currency dropped against 15 of its 16 major counterparts after Masaaki Shirakawa, governor of the central bank, said policy makers were studying currency markets and how they affected the country's economy.
